

Building Proposals To Chicago

Proposals for a new college dormitory, an athletic stadium and the clearing of two hundred acres of the Wartburg campus will be carried into a joint meeting of the American Lutheran Church Board of Higher Education and the Wartburg Board of Trustees next week by Pres. C. H. Becker.

Meeting Tuesday through Saturday in the Morrison Hotel, the Board will be joined on Wednesday by presidents and board members of the institutions of higher education. This group meets once each year to discuss common problems of the schools.

It is at the Wednesday meeting that Dr. Becker will present his report on the building program.

"Killing two birds with one stone," Dr. Becker will be pleased to find that the $100,000 grant to Wartburg by the Ford Foundation be invested in the construction of a new dormitory and that the income from the building be used to increase faculty salaries. Terms of the Ford grant stipulate that at least half of the gift, $50,000, will be presented by June, and the balance to be paid off within a year from that date. For 10 years, only the interest from the invested capital may be used, but after the time has elapsed, the money becomes an outright gift and the college may utilize it for any purpose.

Construction of a large permanent athletic stadium with funds received from the Iowa College Foundation will also be proposed by Dr. Becker. An association of 17 Iowa schools, the four of which conduct statewide fund raising drives and divides the returns among the participating schools.

To be located on the east end of the present Knight practice field adjoining Knights Gymnasium, the stadium would be largely steel and contain ample facilities for press and press. Seating capacity has not been definitely determined.

Knights Play On City
At present all local Wartburg football games are played at Waverly Municipal field.

Removal of the residences of Business Manager H. C. Riegerbrecht and Dr. John Hiltner, Philosophy Department, will be proposed at the Chicago meeting in order to clear the block which the Fine Arts Building is being constructed. Estimated cost of the house shuffling is nearly $14,000.

Home now located southeast of Luther Hall will be moved to locations bordering the southeast and northeast corners of the campus. Publications House and Perimeter, on either corner, are not slated for removal in the immediate future.

Senate Sets $1,300 Goal For Student Body Project

Thirteen hundred dollars has been set as the goal for the 1956 Student Body Project as decided by the Student Senate at a special meeting Monday evening.

Ultimate objective of the drive is a high fidelity sound system for the Student Memorial Union. Step planning the SB Project will be a special work project headed by Dick Larson, junior.

According to project chairman Mary Remmers, junior, solicitations for the drive will begin Monday and continue until March 2.

List Committees
Members of the general committee include Eugene Van Driel, Joe Altman and Harold Hirschman, juniors. Work project committee members include Dick Larson, Darrell Beckmann, juniors, Bob Kuman, sophomore, and Bob Kildebrand, senior.

A vote is scheduled for Tuesday's convocation to decide what the work project should consist of. Up for consideration are a religious and business survey, work at the Bartels and Childs's Homes, help for the Maternity family and repair of the college tennis courts.

Work Project Now
The work project, an innovation this year, is designed to supplement the Student Body Project, not replace it, said Larson. Work will not start on it until after the conclusion of the SBP.

In commenting on the drive, Remmers stated, "So far, we have excellent cooperation from the committees. I get this much help from the rest of the students, I'm sure the drive will be a success."

Piano, Voice Recital Wed.

Juniors Bernice Schulz, student of Miss Jean Altmann, piano instructor, and Karen Dietner, and Dennis Larson, students of C. Rob Larson, voice, will present a recital Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Little Theater.

Miss Schulz, pianist, will play "Impromptu in B-flat Major," Schubert, "La Campanella," Chopin, Debussy, and three numbers from "Mikrosmos," "Alternating Tones," "Boating" and "Fountain," Bartok.

Miss Dietner, soprano, will sing "Nacht und Träume" and "Madame Butterfly," Wagner, "Liede, welche mein Schimmer" and "Vergebliche Ständchen," Brahms, "Weisses Mädchen," Beethoven, "Pavane," "Ouvre ton coeur à moi," Massenet, "The Time of Parting," Haydn, and "Original Gerardo," Alberti.

Larson's tenor numbers include "Total Eclipse," Handel, "Veschevengene Liebe," Wolf, "Romantic Song," Liszt, "Die Boheme," Puccini, "Verdi," "In the Silence of the Night," Beethoven, "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal," Quilter.

Groups Work On College Relations

Improvement of interschool relations between Wartburg and Luther was the topic which special committees from both schools met there Thursday morning.

Tentative plans call for the adoption of an athletic brake as a traveling trophy between the two schools. Under the proposed plan, the award would be given to the school earning the largest number of points for all seven sports.

The basis for point-earning would be 100 points for the major sports of football, basketball, track and baseball, 50 points for minor sports of golf, tennis and volleyball, and 25-point bonus to each school for total sportsmanship.

Approval of both student bodies is necessary for final O.K. Under the tentative plan, the system would go into effect this year and would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1955.

Big Ten Rule Unfair To Others

The recent upbraiding of the Big Ten by Earnest Oppermann has been given a back seat in the sports pages of the daily news papers, and in its place has come the Ohio State-Dayton affair in which the Big Ten member (Ohio State) has accused its fellow state institution of tampering with one of its athletes.

It all goes to show that the Big Ten seems mighty sensitive about what other schools do, and not quite so concerned with some of its own actions. Last week Oppermann delivered a firm wallop to the seat of the Big Ten. And now that some of the sting has gone, the Big Ten, believed to be the biggest and strongest athletic conference in the nation, appears to be ready to resume its former ways.

The boss of the Big Ten, Kenneth (Tag) Wilson has called Oppermann's attack "malicious" and has threatened to censure the Wartburg dean of students. Oppermann has said he doesn't know what statements in his letter to the commissioner are malicious, and Wilson, after verbally raking Oppermann over the coals, has kept silent ever since.

The affair centers around this: Does Oppermann have grounds for asking the Big Ten to clean up its surroundings?

Charles Johnson, veteran sports reporter for the Minneapolis Star, acknowledges that he was not aware of the 40-year-old Big Ten rule which allows a student to transfer from one educational institution to another and immediately become eligible for athletic competition.

Even Bucky O'Connor, head basketball coach at the University of Iowa, admitted that he did not believe such a rule was in existence. But after talking with the coach caged at Wisconsin, Bud Foster, he found out differently.

Sports Editor Al Ney of the Waterloo Courier calls Oppermann a sincere man, one who commands the respect of all those who know him.

All indications are that the rule, unbeknown to most, with the exception of Bud Foster, has been accepted all these years by everyone and, up to now, questioned by none. The members of the Iowa Conference require a transfer student to be in residence for at least one semester immediately prior to the semester in which the student is eligible for athletic competition. This rule is nearly universally observed by schools. The Big Ten is an exception.

The antique Big Ten rule simply does not allow other schools to compete with it on an even basis. It merely reduces outside institutions to the level of "farm club." Because the Big Ten is bigger and mightier than most conferences is not sufficient reason for it to take advantage of fellow institutions.

If this is sportsmanship, then the term has taken on a new and twisted meaning.

Ike Scratches Head-To Run Or Not-That's The Question

By Don Oberdorfer

The time has again arrived when the American people turn their attention toward the Presidential campaign. The favorite old slogan from a typing class has been presented: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country," only in a somewhat different light.

Oberdorfer

The people of our country have come to it in a different manner. The issue in which their aid seems to be wanted deals with the question of President Eisenhower's reelection regarding the coming Presidential race. Should he or should he not run for office again?

America has waited for a long time to see if Eisenhower would seek reelection. After frequent visits to heart specialists he still remains in the darkness of indecision. His physicians feel it would be all right for him to run for office again.

Indirectly the President has shown his concern over this question and his desire to have some aid from his countrymen. Upon being questioned as to his own opinion regarding his physical fitness for the job, the President feels that he might be able to take the job.

Admitting that at times he has felt extremely burdened, the President, nevertheless, seems to feel that this might be due to his advancing years and not to his previous ailment. The clinical records show a wonderful recovery and a splendid set of facts, indicating with favor the ability of Ike to run.

Public feeling seems to be running high at the moment that the President will run again.

Quizzed on his support of Chief Justice Warren, should he decide to let Eisenhower stand that he would present no opposition should Warren consider this possibility. This, however, does not seem probable.

After setting an elusive date for the announcement of his intent, the President stated that the decision would be entirely his own and would not be influenced to say great degree by medical opinion. He stated that if he must face it and overcome it by himself.

KNIGHT DEAT

by Bob Loebe

Somebody ought to mention the fine sportsmanship that finally came about in a Luther-Warburg game. And judging by the outcome of the encounter, Luther should have swept a Knight in a number 30 basketball uniform instead of a metal one. With his tail getting clobbered, the Sports Coach, old John, ought have been out of the wood shed.

Quite a few members of American novel class are the objects of a bit of unjust ridicule as they sink and fro with their copies of the "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" tucked under their arms. Those who make the typical comment, "Why, I read that in grade school," should register for the course. It isn't a kids' novel, now.

Sophomore Jon Trefree says that Wartburg College and its Knights connections have nothing on his old high school alma mater. One year while he was there the coach's name was KING. Jon's home town is in ARTHUR, N. D., and the team was called the KNIGHTS. Uh-huh, that's it, now you're catching on—King's Arthur Knights.

One of these weekends when you start going through one of your old yearbooks, after having nothing to do, you might check on what's doing at the local high school. Some of the local Wartburgers who went to the severely high variety show, "Off the Record," last week, were pleasantly surprised. Some of the acts were really professional.

Footnotes To Faith: Make Lent Period To Strive Toward God

By Ray Heidtke

Last Wednesday was the beginning of Lent. The observance of Lent goes as far back as does the observance of Easter. The festival of Easter, as one of the high festival days of the church, called for a special fast or preparation.

This time was not aside as a preparation for Easter. Many forms of observance were prohibited. We see this today in the fact that many people do not go to church or other forms of entertainment during this time.

Many abstain from meat, candy and other non-essentials. Often we find that being done, not as a form of fasting, but only as a novelty.

What does the Lenten season mean to you? Is it just another 40 days in the year no different from any others? Is it a period of a few weeks when we get to church on a night a week and think that is all that is necessary to observe Lent? Or is it a time when we perhaps give up something without really knowing why we do it?

For too many people, Lent does not have any significance until the Lenten season is over. Then they suddenly begin to think of the meaning of Good Friday and Easter. In Lent, the observance of what it means to them.

Only we, as Christians, can know the real meaning of the Lenten season and Holy Week, which to prepare for Holy Week and to meditate upon the life of our Savior, His day and His Resurrection. Lent, observed rightly is to be a natural growth of the Christian toward a greater love for Christ and to a greater realization of the Cross as the only hope for man.

How much more meaning the death and resurrection of our Lord will have for us if we have been preparing for it throughout Lent and coming closer to Him! We have so much opportunity to come into a closer relationship with our God during this time. We have midweek Lenten services and college chapel services dedicated to this purpose.

We have these and many more ways to help us in our meditation and preparation for Holy Week. How can we afford to neglect them?

Let us all make this and every Lenten season a special period for closer relationship with our God. Only by observing Lent in this way can we really appreciate the great sacrifice our Lord made for our redemption.

Play Delightful, Stimulating

What's After School? Attend Business Meet

By Shirley Cords

Opening in the Little Theater to a crowd of 300 grade school students from St. Paul's, Lincoln and the Children's Home schools Thursday afternoon, "Beauty and the Beast," based on the fairy tale of the same name, provided a delightful and stimulating program for both audience and actors.

In the title role of Beauty, freshman Carol Ann Keller, fulfilled every child's idea of a lovely princess. Captivating on the stage, she was suggested by her part, Miss Keller was wise, sweet and innocent. Keith Lunde, freshman, in the role of the Beast and Prince Armand showed remarkable talent with his voice. Though remembered by a mask he was able to speak clearly and show vividly the emotion necessary for the role.

Maring, Vicki Villains

Furnishing the villainous element in the play were senior Joe Maring as the Magician Renard, who had a talent for changing people into animals, and Evon Wick, sophomore, as his daughter Antoinette. Firmly establishing their characters early in the play, they were able to sustain them strongly even after they had turned themselves into apes, and give admirable performances by alternate pantomime and speaking.

Newcomers to the Little Theater stage, Bev Hilen and Janet Welsh, both freshmen, gave convincing portrayal in the roles of Beauty's two selfish sisters. Also making his Wartburg stage debut, George Herberich, junior, created a delightful role as the merchant father of Beauty. He was both eager and bewildered by the fantastic change of events. Joan Steinhilber, sophomore, played the fairy godmother with precise mystery and dignity.

Vollending Direct Play

Gary Vollending, senior, directed the two-day children's theater production, an annual project of the Lambda Mu cast of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity. The audience is made up chiefly of children from the Waverly grade schools, Irving School children attended Friday.

Between acts and preceding the opening of the play, entertainment was skillfully carried out by Cloris Jim Rocco, junior; Charles Dickson, Speech Department head, and Don Oberdorfer, junior.

"After Graduation—What?" will be the topic before the Business Students Association at its regular meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Fuchs Lounge of the Student Union.

Secretary for the evening is Joe Jacoby, office manager for the Scheidt, Bantam Company, Waverly. Jacoby is a graduate of Creighton University, Omaha, Neb.

According to Pres. Gene Van Driel, junior, all students are invited to attend. Invitations are sure will be taken at this meeting.
